

Communicating Interpersonally – HR Course – French

Course Description

Interpersonal skills, or people skills, are something you already have. But positive daily interactions don't always "just happen," whether in business or in our personal lives. This course will cover the importance of interpersonal communication, the pros and cons to different types of communication and other skills you can use to be a better communicator. (French version)