

Ontario IASR Information and Communications Standards and Employment Standards

Course Description

This course explains the Information and Communications Standards and Employment Standards under Ontario's Integrated Accessibility Standards Regulation, also called the IASR. Learners will understand how accessible communication, accessible employment practices, accommodation, and barrier removal help people with disabilities participate more fully in work and public life.