

Picture This! Safer by the Handful

From the Canadian north to the deep southern United States, the winter of 2013/14 came early and hit hard, creating treacherous conditions for motorists and pedestrians. Slipping on icy walkways can cause serious injuries, including brain injuries. Workplaces need to be extra vigilant for icy conditions and throw down salt or ice-melting pellets on walkways to protect workers and the public.